General Guidelines for Proposals to Revise Course Prerequisites/ Corequisites/ Special Requirements

- This form is used to revise the prerequisites, corequisites and/or special requirements for an existing course. If course prerequisites/corequisites are revised to reflect significantly revised course content, learning outcomes, student expectations, etc., a new course proposal must be submitted.
- Proposals to revise course prerequisites, corequisites and/or special requirements are consent items.
- If the proposed prerequisite/corequisite revisions involve courses offered by another department/unit, the head of that department/unit should be informed so that appropriate scheduling decisions can be made.
- Prerequisites, corequisites and/or special requirements listed in item 3 will appear in the university catalogs.
  - Distinguish clearly between prerequisites and corequisites. For course prerequisites or corequisites, indicate each subject area prefix and course number (not the course title). If a prerequisite/corequisite course presumes completion of other courses, the preceding courses should not be listed. In other words, list only the immediate prerequisites and not all the courses that precede the immediate prerequisites. For example, students in XXXX 323 are required to have completed XXXX 321, 202 and 201, but only XXXX 321 is listed as the prerequisite because XXXX 202 and 201 are prerequisites to XXXX 321.
  - For other enrollment requirements (e.g., instructor permission required, class standing, acceptance to the xxx program required, restricted to majors in the xxx program), clearly state the text as it will appear in the catalog. Course requirements need not state the obvious; for example, a 500-level course need not stipulate "graduate standing."
  - Prerequisites for the graduate (G) component of a 400-level course do not have to be the same as those for the undergraduate component.
- Item 5 should indicate how the changes in course prerequisites, corequisites and/or special requirements will affect completion of the major/minor sequence, including provisions that will be made for current majors/minors. If the changes in course prerequisites, corequisites and/or special requirements will not affect completion of the major/minor sequence, indicate "not applicable." This should also address impact on transfer students and other programs.
- When proposing a term for implementation in item 6, refer to the Schedule Flow on the UCC website to determine proposed approval timelines as they relate to registration for a term. Courses cannot be revised for a term once registration for that term has begun.

 A Course Inventory Form for each course must be submitted to the college dean's office. From there it will be forwarded to the Office of the Registrar as part of the college's package of Course Inventory Forms for that month's UCC agenda.

Proposal Date: 2/1/19

1. Identification of course:

1.1 Course prefix (subject area) and number: PSY 310

1.2 Course title: Educational Psychology

- 2. Current prerequisites/corequisites/special requirements: PSY 100 or PSY 220 and one of the following: EDU 250, MGE 275, AGED 250, SMED 101, SMED 301, IECE 321 AMS 329, or permission of instructor.
- 3. Proposed prerequisites/corequisites/special requirements: One of the following: EDU 250, MGE 275, AGED 250, SMED 101, SMED 301, IECE 321, or AMS 329; and a minimum cumulative GPA of 2.50 or a composite ACT of 21 or higher; or permission of instructor.
- 4. Rationale for the revision of prerequisites/corequisites/special requirements: The Reinvesting in Teacher Education initiative was launched in September of 2018, and an ad-hoc Core Curriculum Committee was created to develop a 15-credit teacher education core that all non-STEM students in education will take. PSY 310 is one of the five courses in the proposed core. The Psychology Department was asked to remove the prerequisite of PSY 100 or PSY 220 for two main reasons: 1) to accommodate students in the various teacher education programs who either enter WKU having taken or are required to take specific courses other than PSY 100 or PSY 220 -- to fulfill the Social and Behavioral Sciences (SB) category of the Colonnade, and 2) to reduce the number of required courses education students need to take to fulfill their degree programs. SMED 310: Knowing and Learning in Mathematics and Science an educational psychology course for the SKyTeach Program -- does not require the PSY 100 or 220 prerequisite, so this revision would align to a similar course taught by Psychology faculty in teacher education.

Historically, education students who have struggled academically (i.e., having less than a 2.5 GPA upon entry to PSY 310) have difficulty managing the reading, writing, and critical thinking demands of PSY 310 resulting in poor student outcomes. Students who do not meet the minimum grade requirements for Teacher Education (i.e., earning a grade of C or higher) either have to retake PSY 310, or they redirect out of teacher education. Currently, the majority of education students take PSY 310 during their sophomore or junior years. The proposed course sequence indicates that PSY 310 could be taken early during a student's academic program (e.g., taken as a freshman) and might serve as a prerequisite for other core courses. Because of the rigor, the addition of the minimum GPA/ACT requirement was proposed to help with student retention and success rates within the PSY 310 course.

- 5. Effect on completion of major/minor sequence: This change will make it easier for students to register for PSY310.
- 6. Proposed term for implementation: Fall 2019

2.9 Prerequisite/Corequisites/Restrictions:

Prerequisite: EDU 250, or instructor permission

- 2.10 Additional Enrollment Requirements: N/A
- 2.11 Other Special Course Requirements: N/A
- 2.12 Grade Type: Standard A-F final grade
- 2.13 Schedule Type: Lecture

Section 3: Description of proposed course

- 3.1 Course Content Summary: Explain, briefly and succinctly, the subject matter of the course, and the approach/methodology that will be used to explore it.
- a) Introduction to assessment
  - i) Vocabulary and concepts
  - ii) Assessment formats: pre, formative, and summative
  - iii) Levels of assessment individual, class, grade level, school, district, state
- b) Analyzing assessment results
  - i) Basic statistical calculations mean, median, mode, standard deviation
  - ii) Interpreting results (e.g., individuals, class, grade level, school, district, state)
  - iii) Communicating results to students, parents, and other stakeholders
- c) Introduction to formative and summative assessments for instructional practice
  - i) Identifying student learning and instructional pacing
  - ii) Documenting student readiness for content
- d) The role of assessment in instructional design
  - i) Using assessment in lesson planning; assessment's connection to learning objectives
  - ii) Providing feedback to students to enhance learning
  - iii) Designing assessment to document learning

3.2 Learning Outcomes:

Upon successful completion of this course, students should:

- Explain the role and use of formal and informal pre-assessments, formative assessments, summative assessments, and standardized assessments in the P-12 classroom.
- Create various forms of reliable and valid assessments including scoring criteria (rubrics/scoring guides).
- Demonstrate knowledge evaluating, grading, and giving feedback.

3.3 Assessment/Evaluation:

Students will be assessed by demonstrating achievement of learning outcomes through participating in in-class activities that provide hands-on assessment practice, evaluating multiple forms of assessment and creating assessments, and reflecting on their learning through papers and quizzes.

Section 4: Rationale

4.1 Reason for developing this proposed course:

The Reinvesting in Teacher Education initiative was launched in September of 2018. An ad-hoc Core Curriculum Committee with faculty representation from CEBS, Ogden, Potter, and CHHS, as well as community constituents and p-12 district partners, began its work to develop a 15-credit teacher education core that all students in teacher education will take. Based on the collaborative efforts of The Core Curriculum Committee and with approval of the School of Teacher Education faculty, a framework of 5 courses and 3 integrated themes was developed. The School of Teacher Education is bringing these 5 courses forward to this curriculum committee to establish the 15-credit teacher education core. Subsequent revisions to individual education programs will be forthcoming.

Assessing learner outcomes is foundational to determining effective instruction at multiple levels (individual, class, grade level, school, district, and state results). Analyzing student performance drives instructional pedagogy, methods and practice of teaching. This course will provide education candidates with foundational knowledge about classroom assessment which an effective teacher must know and use. This course will be one of the core courses required for students in the School of Teacher Education.

4.2 Relationship to similar courses offered by other university departments/units:

In the course CD-485 INTRODUCTION TO ASSESSMENT IN COMMUNICATION DISORDERS the focus is on using standardized and nonstandardized screening and diagnostic instruments for a specific type of student. While students will examine assessment data, this proposed course will focus on the creating, implementation, and analysis of classroom assessments.

In the course PSY 210. RESEARCH METHODS IN PSYCHOLOGY there is some overlap in topics such as reliability and validity. However, this is related mostly to performing research in various contexts.

The proposed course is focused on assessment of all P-12 students in a classroom.

Both departments have been consulted and see no conflicts or overlaps between their courses and this course.

Section 5: Projected Enrollments/Resources

- 5.1 How many students per section are expected to enroll in this proposed course? 30
- 5.2 How many sections of this course per academic year will be offered? 8-10
- 5.3 How many students per academic year are expected to enroll? 300
- 5.4 How were these projections calculated? Explain any supporting evidence/data you have for arriving at these projections:

This projection is based on current enrollment for similar EDU courses. Fall 2018 had 159 students and Spring 2018 had 190 students (total of 349 students) enrolled in the Introduction to Education (EDU 250), which is required for all education majors. Ten sections were taught each academic year.

5.5 Proposed method of staffing:

Current staffing is sufficient. Should the teacher education program grow beyond the current capacity, the school will manage resources to meet these demands.

- 5.6 Instructional technology resources: Current technology resources are sufficient.
- 5.7 Library resources Current library resources are sufficient.

Do not include any prerequisites, corequisites or any other restrictions here; that information will be required in item 2.9, below.

This course provides students with education and training to address diverse student needs in the P-12 setting. Clinical field experiences in public schools and/or other appropriate settings away from campus are required. Students are responsible for their own transportation to designated or assigned sites.

2.13 Prerequisite/Corequisites/Restrictions: If none, simply indicate with N/A (Not Applicable). If prerequisite and/or corequisite courses are required:

Prerequisite: EDU 250, or instructor permission

- 2.15 Other Special Course Requirements: N/A
- 2.16 Grade Type: Standard A-F final grade
- 2.17 Schedule Type: Choose the most appropriate descriptor from this list of options: Applied Learning

Section 3: Description of proposed course

3.1Course Content Summary:

- i) Creating awareness of diversity
  - (1) Cultural diversity
  - (2) Economic diversity
  - (3) Intellectual diversity
  - (4) Gender diversity
  - (5) Family diversity
  - (6) Linguistic diversity
- ii) Examining the roles of teachers to meet individual needs
  - (1) Identifying individual differences
  - (2) Collaborative teaching
  - (3) Building supportive relationships
  - (4) Culturally relevant pedagogy
  - (5) Review legal history and teacher responsibilities under the law
- iii) Utilizing assessments to determine student needs
  - (1) Preassessments
  - (2) Formative assessments
  - (3) Summative assessments
- iv) Implementing differentiation
  - (1) Creating differentiated learning experiences
  - (2) Matching learning activities with student needs
  - (3) Managing a differentiated classroom
  - (4) Monitoring individual progress

- 3.2 Learning Outcomes: Upon successful completion of this course, students should be able to:
  - Create a classroom environment that celebrates diversity, respects individual differences, and challenges each learner to meet high standards.
  - Summarize the collaborative roles of teachers (both special and general educators), along with parents, related service providers, and educational assistants (paraprofessionals) in developing an effective inclusive environment that meets learning/social/emotional needs and legal requirements of students (e.g., students as risk, those with disabilities, giftedness, twiceexceptionalities, and English language learners).
  - Explain how history has led to current legislation and identification of students (e.g., those with disabilities, giftedness, twiceexceptionalities, English language learners) including the responsibilities of school personnel in IEP development and service delivery.
  - Develop a variety of preassessments based on interest, readiness, ability, and/or learning profile in order to appropriately address a diverse range of learners.
  - Provide appropriately challenging, differentiated learning experiences for students based on content, process, and/or product through a variety of strategies.
  - Recognize individual differences such as race, culture, linguistic, gender, ability, socio-economic status, and family situations and adjust instruction.
  - Acknowledge personal bias, stereotypes and privilege

3.3 Assessment/Evaluation:

Students will be assessed through reflections on case studies, clinical observations, and interviews. They will be required to demonstrate understanding through creating preassessments and challenging learning experiences based on the preassessment results. The students will be required to implement these assignments through a clinical field experience. The culminating project will demonstrate the ability to create a classroom environment that celebrates diversity, respects individual differences, and challenges each learner to meet high standards.

Section 4: Rationale

4.1 Reason for developing this proposed course: Explain how and why this proposed course is desirable and/or necessary, and how it relates to departmental/college/university wide goals and standards. Please note: while references to course content may be included here for clarity's sake, this section is primarily meant to explain why.needed/desirable, not what the course is about, which should have been explained thoroughly in section 3: Description of Proposed Course, above.

The Reinvesting in Teacher Education initiative was launched in September of 2018. An ad-hoc Core Curriculum Committee with faculty representation from CEBS, Ogden, Potter, and CHHS, as well as community constituents and p-12 district partners, began its work to develop a 15-credit teacher education core that all students in teacher education will take. Based on the collaborative efforts of The Core Curriculum Committee and with approval of the School of Teacher Education faculty, a framework of 5 courses and 3 integrated themes was developed. The School of Teacher Education is bringing these 5 courses forward to this curriculum committee to establish the 15-credit teacher education core. Subsequent revisions to individual education programs will be forthcoming.

Based on the nation's changing demographics, the School of Teacher Education recognized a need to provide all education students with an understanding of diversity to better meet the needs of all learners. This course is necessary not only to prepare students for the diversity that they will experience in future classrooms but also to prepare them to address individual learners' needs through a differentiation framework.

This course is to provide students with education and training to address diverse student needs in the P-12 setting. The first half of the course will focus on issues of diversity including race, culture, gender, ability, socioeconomic status, and family situations. Students will explore themes relating to bias, stereotypes, and deficit thinking that may influence interactions with individuals. The second half of the course focuses on practical strategies to differentiate instruction to address the unique needs of students. Topics will include creating classroom environments that accept student differences, using pre-assessment to understand student needs, designing meaningful educational experiences, and using differentiated assessments to document learning. Clinical experiences in public schools and/or other appropriate settings away from campus are required. Students are responsible for their own transportation to designated or assigned sites.

4.2 Relationship to similar courses offered by other university departments/units: Do any other courses already being offered by other university departments/units share content with this proposed course? Are any of the proposed pre/co-requisites for this course offered by another university department/unit?

Although courses such as DCS400: Diversity and Community Studies, COMM 365: Intercultural Communication, COMM 463: Advanced Intercultural Communication explore diversity, none of them focus on diversity in order to prepare students for teaching. Two courses in the School of Teacher Education currently teach diversity for Elementary and Special Education; however, they are at a deeper level and this course serves as the introduction and will be taken by all education students. Both departments have been consulted and see no conflicts or overlaps between their courses and this course.

Section 5: Projected Enrollments/Resources

- 5.1 How many students per section are expected to enroll in this proposed course? 30
- 5.8 How many sections of this course per academic year will be offered? 8-10
- 5.9 How many students per academic year are expected to enroll? 300
- 5.10 How were these projections calculated? Explain any supporting evidence/data you have for arriving at these projections:

This projection is based on current enrollment for similar EDU courses.

Fall 2018 had 159 students and Spring 2018 had 190 students (total of 349 students) enrolled in the Introduction to Education (EDU 250). Ten sections were taught for each academic year.

5.11 Proposed method of staffing:

Current staffing is sufficient. Should the teacher education grow beyond the current capacity the school will manage resources to meet these demands.

- 5.12 Instructional technology resources: Current technology resources are sufficient.
- 5.13 Library resources: Current library resources are sufficient.

Section 3: Description of proposed course

- 3.1 Course Content Summary: This course provides the foundational knowledge for teacher candidates on the role of behavior at any grade level within a school setting. Teacher candidates will learn how to assess the classroom environment and specific student behaviors within. Through the use of classroom management strategies, teacher candidates will apply evidence-based interventions to decrease problem behaviors and increase prosocial behaviors that will serve to improve student academic outcomes and classroom success. The course will be appropriate for varied majors within the School of Teacher Education.
- 1) The effects of classroom environment on student behavior
  - a) Classroom setup
  - b) Rules, routines, procedures
  - c) Teacher influence
  - d) Peer influence
- 2) The effects of outside influences on students' behavior
  - a) Student characteristics
  - b) Cultural perspective
  - c) Home environment
  - d) Societal issues
- 3) Conditions under which behavior occurs
  - a) How to define behavior
  - b) Antecedents (what occurs immediately prior to the behavior)
  - c) Consequences (what occurs immediately after the behavior)
- 4) Multi-tiered systems of support for behavior (e.g. behavioral RTI [Response to Intervention], PBIS [Positive Behavior Intervention Support])
  - a) School level (Tier 1)
  - b) Classroom level (Tier 2)
  - c) Individual level (Tier 3)
  - d) Role of professional in each level/tier
- 5) Classroom management strategies
  - a) Preventative strategies
  - b) Reactive strategies
- 6) Functions of Behavior
  - a) Function-based Interventions

3.2 Learning Outcomes:

Students should be able to:

- Analyze how the classroom environment affects students' behavior in school settings.
- Explain how factors outside the classroom affect students' behavior.
- Describe behavior and identify the conditions under which they occur (antecedent, behavior, and consequences of behavior).
- Explain a tiered system of school and classroom behavioral intervention and identify each professional's role within this system.
- Summarize and apply preventative classroom management strategies to reduce problem behavior and improve prosocial behavior.
- Summarize and apply reactive classroom management strategies to reduce problem behavior and improve prosocial behavior.
- Identify the functions of behavior and compare and contrast the benefits or drawbacks of individualized function-based interventions.
- 3.3 Assessment/Evaluation: This course will focus on the acquisition and application of behavioral principles. Students will be assessed via a variety of course assignments (e.g. papers, reflections, quizzes, tests, case studies, and projects).

Section 4: Rationale

4.1 Reason for developing this proposed course:

The Reinvesting in Teacher Education initiative was launched in September of 2018. An ad-hoc Core Curriculum Committee with faculty representation from CEBS, Ogden, Potter, and CHHS, as well as community constituents and p-12 district partners, began its work to develop a 15-credit teacher education core that all students in teacher education will take. Based on the collaborative efforts of The Core Curriculum Committee and with approval of the School of Teacher Education faculty, a framework of 5 courses and 3 integrated themes was developed. The School of Teacher Education is bringing these 5 courses forward to this curriculum committee to establish the 15-credit teacher education core. Subsequent revisions to individual education programs will be forthcoming.

Classroom management and student problem behavior are often listed as top reasons why teachers leave the field of education. Teachers report feeling overwhelmed and underprepared in these areas. Therefore, it is crucial for the faculty of a School of Teacher Education to effectively train teacher candidates on strategies to address these problems. This course will be one of the core courses required for students in the School of Teacher Education.

4.2 Relationship to similar courses offered by other university departments/units: SPED 400, Psych of Learning (PSY 331), and Behavior Modification (PSY 443) all focus on elements of behavior, but this course focuses more directly on preparing P-12 students to manage behavior in the classroom. The PSY department views this course as a good way to build on PSY 310 to prepare preservice teachers for managing the classroom setting.

Section 5: Projected Enrollments/Resources

- 5.1 How many students per section are expected to enroll in this proposed course? 30
- 5.2 How many sections of this course per academic year will be offered? 8-10
- 5.3 How many students per academic year are expected to enroll? 300
- 5.4 How were these projections calculated? Explain any supporting evidence/data you have for arriving at these projections: The projection is based on current enrollment for similar EDU courses. Fall 2018 had 159 students and Spring 2018 had 190 students (total of 349 students) enrolled in the Introduction to Education (EDU 250), which is required for all education majors. Ten sections were taught for each year.
- 5.5 Proposed method of staffing: Current staffing is sufficient. Should the teacher education program grow beyond the current capacity, the school will manage resources to meet these demands.
