BACHELOR of ARTS in ANTHROPOLOGY (#608)
Archaeology Concentration
Department of Folk Studies and Anthropology
Potter College of Arts and Letters
Western Kentucky University

The anthropology major requires 30 hours with completion of a second major or minor. The suggested program of study shown below should be used in consultation with your advisor(s). Every student will finish with a unique plan of his/her own depending on the electives and the second major or minor selected.

The archaeology concentration of the anthropology major requires completion of at least three credit hours of ANTH 432 Field Course in Archaeology. This course is offered in summer terms. Students pursuing the archaeology concentration should plan to complete at least three credit hours of ANTH 432 in the summer between the second and third years or, ideally, between the third and fourth years. Students who are unable to take the summer course may still complete the major in anthropology by selecting a concentration in cultural anthropology, biological anthropology, or cultural resource management.

Notes

Colonnade General Education Program: Denoted in blue. For more details and courses offered, visit the website. ANTH 120 or ANTH 130 fulfills the Social and Behavioral Sciences requirement in Explorations. For the World Language Requirement, language proficiency of novice-high before completing 60 credit hours is required (or completion of second level of a language). Two credits (or equivalent) of a single world language in high school satisfies this WKU requirement.

Anthropology Major Program: Anthropology majors must earn a grade of C or better in all core courses in the major: ANTH 120, 125, 130, 135, 399. Course numbers and prerequisites are subject to change; consult with your anthropology advisor each semester. Some upper-level anthropology courses are offered in a limited rotation (one offering each two years); anthropology majors must work closely with their anthropology advisors and pay attention to course rotations and offerings in order to schedule these classes when they are offered.
